

Algal Biodiesel Bioreactors

We are developing techniques to generate biodiesel from algae via nutritional starvation. This project will entail growing algae cultures and characterizing the generation of algal lipids. Interactions with others using microdevices to characterize these algal cultures is also possible.